

I-CASH Youth Grant Recipients 1998 – 2021

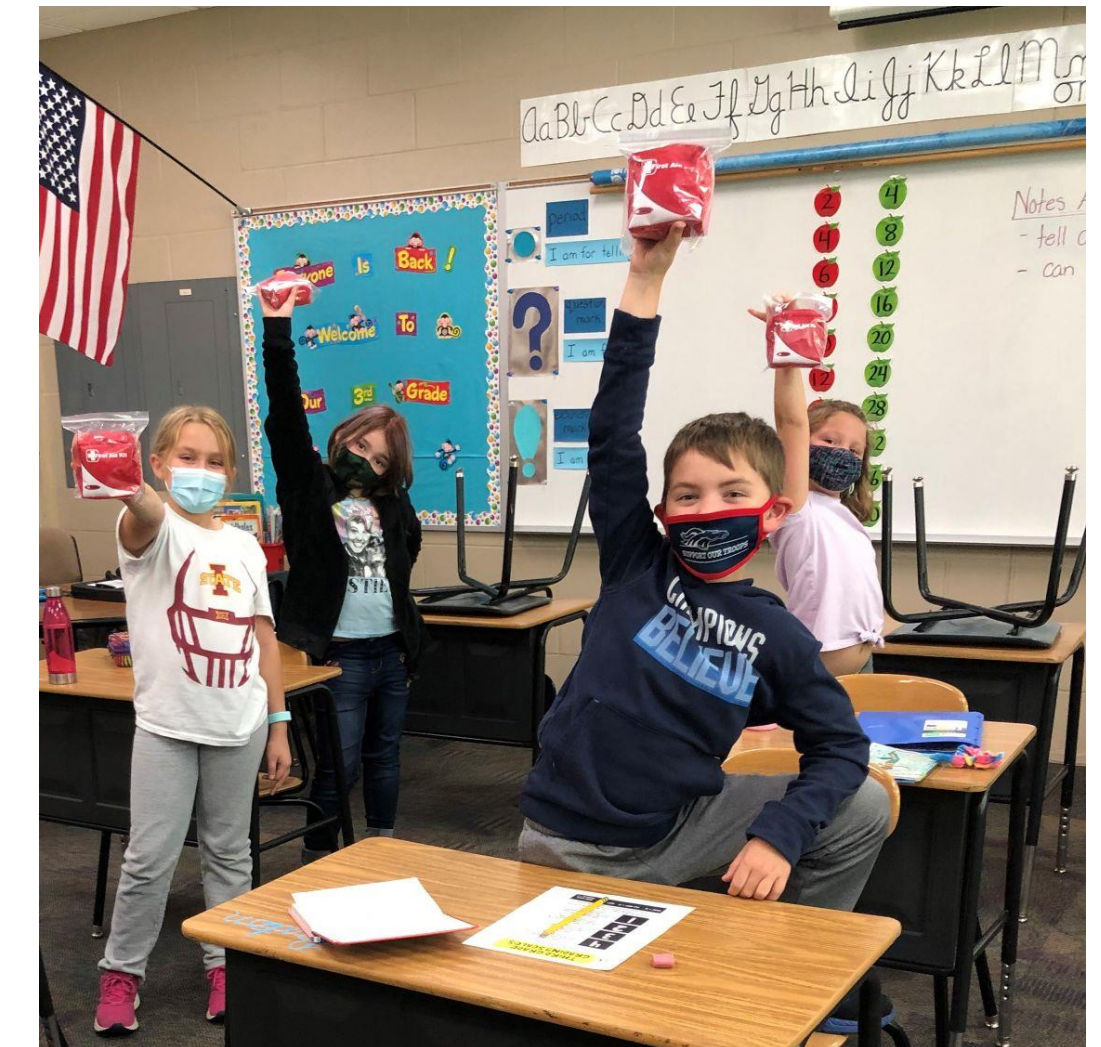

Ralph Altmaier, MS¹ and
Brandi Janssen, PhD¹

¹Iowa's Center for Agricultural Safety and Health, Institute for Rural and Environmental Health, University of Iowa

I-CASH designates funds for community grants targeted at the prevention of farm-related injury and illness in young people and their families.

Each year, I-CASH distributes $5000 among projects that involve youth in the planning and delivery of agricultural safety and wellness messages.

In the past 24 years, 192 grants have been awarded to 102 Iowa youth organizations totaling over $150,000.

Many events were postponed or re-imagined in 2020. This group distributed 1st Aid Kits to elementary age children instead of a fair time event.

In 2021 youth grant recipients plan to teach kids about farm, animal, grain bin, noise, skin and electricity safety. Others will distribute bags of goodies to farmers during harvest with a message that it is good to stop and take a break.

Youth Grant winners come from sixty-two Iowa counties. Online and paper applications for 2022 grants will be available January 2022. Visit I-CASH.org and select Agricultural Youth Grants under the Programs tab to find out more or scan the QR code.

